

My name is Richard Dombowsky. I was born and raised in Moose Jaw. I graduated from Vanier Collegiate. I have a bachelor's degree in Human Justice from the Uof R and am currently working towards a Master's Degree in Educational Psychology.

I started working for the Ministry of Social Services in 2001 as a group activity Aide at Valley View Centre. In 2009 I took the position of Crisis Support Therapist. I worked provincially with ministry partners, agencies and families to support people with intellectual disabilities who displayed complex, dangerous and harmful behaviours. In 2013 I started supervising the six Crisis Support Therapists around the province.

In 2015 I took the role as Supervisor of Behaviour Supports. I am currently involved in a joint effort with Community Living and Child and Family to provide behavior support to youth.

I am married and have a fourteen year old son attending Central Collegiate.
