There are general budgeting websites on the internet, as well as ones specific to particular universities or technical schools. Some perform all of the calculations for you, and some have the university or technical school fees already in the spaces for calculation. Others will provide many of the figures to fill in the spaces above, and some will give you information on how to save money as a student. As well, you may need to make some calls to find some of the other numbers. For instance, you may need to ask a landlord or call the utility companies to find out what average monthly costs might be for rent, power, phone, etc.
